

The Cookie

I lunged. I grabbed. I cried out in victory. I had gotten the last cookie. Then I looked over to the sad face of my younger brother. I could tell he was genuinely devastated. Then his face turned to pure joy as I handed over the cookie to him. "Thanks Julianna!" He cried out and ran off happy as could be.